

COMPLEX LIVER DISEASE

Our team consists of highly trained physicians with a focus on complex liver disease, many of whom are triple board certified in Internal Medicine, Gastroenterology, and Transplant Hepatology from the best training programs across the country. We strive to maintain the utmost quality of care in the diagnosis and management of advanced liver disease, as well as identifying those who would best benefit from liver transplant.

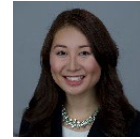

We have developed a patient registry to screen and identify early liver cancer in those who are at highest risk. We work with multiple transplant institutions throughout Washington state and the country, including the University of Washington, Swedish Medical Center, and Mayo Clinic Arizona to provide our patients with the highest quality liver cancer and transplant care.

The hepatology team has special interests in alcohol associated liver disease, non-alcoholic steatohepatitis, autoimmune related liver disease, and liver cancer. However, we have expertise in the management of all complex liver disease. Our group focuses on multidisciplinary care that involves medical assistants, liver nurse coordinators, and nurse practitioners with our patients at the center.
